Issue 9 - January 2020

New Year, Good Cheer!

Already in 2020, things have been happening that have made me smile, and I want to share some of them with you in this newsletter. These are small wins, sometimes, but they really have given me great joy over the last fiscal month.

1. Chewy

Chewy.com charged me twice for my oldest's Rx dog food. I let them know, and not only did they refund me, but they said to keep the other bag and donate it. WHAT?! I work in retail and that is not a normal business model. LOVE CHEWY NOW! They have us as a customer from now on.

2. PA adoption

For the love of schnauzers, we had a couple in Butler, PA contact the rescue to adopt. We were able to do a site visit and within days of approval, this new mom drove to the Cincy area to pick up her furson. Our reach is ever-growing and happy dogs are being placed with the right families.

3. Yeah! We have had so many adoptions in January already! Do not worry, we still have pups available for you who need loving homes. Follow us on Facebook to celebrate as each adoption is posted and to see new arrivals to the SRC.

Cheers to that!

5 Signs of a Stressed Schnauzer

We often want to know what our little ones are thinking. And we do not want them to be sad, confused, or worried. So, how can you tell when your pup is stressed? Look for these signs:

Whining & Barking, Pacing, Ears Back, Not Eating, Lip Licking, and Whale Eyes (bug eyed or seeing the whites of his eyes)

What can you do to help calm your pooch?

Cuddling, Exercise, Calm Voices, Toys, or Down Time like in his crate voluntarily where he has his own space.

NOTE: Dogs can sense what is going on with their humans, so don't forget to take a personal inventory of your feelings, too.

Cody is available for adoption.

Winter Care Tips for your Dog

Many dogs love to sunbath, others can't get enough of frolicking in the snow. Either way, at this time of year, when the temperatures drop, we need to take special care of our furry friends.

Make safety a priority by using reflective gear, avoid ice, and steer clear of exposure to harmful chemicals like antifreeze and some rock salts.

Limit time in the cold weather, wipe their paws after walk and never leave them unattended outside or in a vehicle.

Provide warm, dry shelter and fresh water. Don't overdue it with treats thinking they need one everytime you have a holiday cookie.

Cold weather may shorten your walks and outside play, so make an effort to keep your pup active inside. Games, fetch, and even using a treat dispensing ball with one piece of food in it, can make for hours of fun. Hint, adjust the hole just slightly smaller than the food to not overdue feeding; adjust it larger as a reward.

Prepare an emergency kit with extra food, water, and medications in case of an emergency.

Oh, and extra love never hurts.

Did you know:

- You should be assertive, but not loud when giving commands; use a calm, authoritative tone, rather than shouting at your dog. Always maintain a consistent, positive calming voice so your dog doesn't get discouraged.
